SINGER'S SEWING MACHINES!

THESE machines have long maintained the highest reputation in the United States—Their merits are almost daily recently being awarded them at the great Exhibitions and Fairs of Industry in Paris and elsewhere, by the World's Jury of Experts.

Great improvements are just been added, so that they run with half the power, and execute the operation at double the ordinary speed, or less.

Twice as much Work can be done in a day. The machines do nothing and shoe manufacturing establishments in the country, these machines exclusively. They are intended to perform every sort of work in the most perfect style.

As there are very many suppliers of inferior or counterfeit machines, purporting to be Grover & Baker and other patents, which have been lately introduced, and which have not been offered to the public, we have determined to reduce all such machines to simple reduces of our own patents, and will sell them at very low rates. All old machines thoroughly repaired, and put in order. For particulars apply by letter or personally at the New York Office.

S. B. LOCKWOOD, Agent, is duly authorized to make sales of our machines in Bangor and vicinity. Persons properly authorized for the business a large and profitable employment for profitable and genteel employment is offered.

VIEWS OF ANDREW JACKSON MAY.—The recent letter of Mr. F. P. Blair, (well known as the former editor of the Washington Globe, and a strong democratic politician,) to the Washington Republic, Administration paper, has naturally attracted a good deal of attention. Mr. Blair, (call the Atlas) is a Southern man, but he does not use less clearly the unspeakable evil of slavery extension, nor love he speak of them less coldly. He fully recognizes the importance of the contest in which we are engaged. "To exclude slavery," says he, "from the territories of the United States, and to rebuke the violation of the compromises which were made to admit as covenants between the slave and free States to effect that exclusion, are in my opinion, the most important movements which have engaged the public mind since the revolution." Here is the opinion of a man of long political experience, who has lived surrounded by influences adverse to the sentiments here proclaimed—an opinion of the importance of a cause, which sometimes, who ought to know better, affect to consider unworthy of their attention. But for those whose intense nationality will not permit them to whisper the word slavery, and who think that every word uttered in behalf of freedom, is treason to the Union, we have another sentence from Mr. Blair's letter which most be worthy of solemn reflection. "The extension of slavery over the new territories, would prove fatal to their prosperity, but the greatest calamity to be apprehended from it is the destruction of the confederacy, for which it evidently suffers no hope country reposes. Every conquest it has attained in the interest of discord, which it has so often threatened the dissolution of the Union, indicates the danger. EVERY CONQUEST OF THE FREE STATES INVITES INVASION."

Never was there a more fatal truth enunciated than this, sentiment of Mr. Blair's—that every surrender by the Free States invites invasion," and that every conquest made by the slave power endangers the Union.

Mr. B., although he has been one of the decided party men in the Union, does not shrink from union with all who are ready to forget minor differences, and to combat this terrible curse vigorously and honestly. He says to the Association—"The cause which your organization is intended to promote may well dra[w] its supporters men of all parties. Differences on questions of policy, on constitutional construction, or modes of administration, may well be merged, to unite men who believe that nothing but concert of action on the part of those who would arrest the spread of slavery, can resist the power of the combination now embodied to make it embrace the continent from ocean to ocean."

This volume, issued in a cheap form, contains a very large amount of information relative to the Kansas region, useful to the emigrant, and interesting to the general reader. Altogether it is a valuable work. We received a copy from the publishers, and support it is for sale at the booksellers.

The New York Tribune says that while the receipts of railroads in the United States, for the year 1855, have increased nearly fifty per cent over those of 1854, yet the fall in the value of their stocks has been nearly two hundred million dollars, with a prospect of its reaching three hundred millions.

"PRINTERS CAN READ ANYTHING."—The above remark is often made by correspondents and advertisers, as an excuse for bad spelling words, abbreviating technical terms, and slovenly, unreadable writing generally. There is no doubt that printers are better decipherers of bad manuscript, than any other class of persons, but when, for instance a merchant writes that he has received five Bbls. ten pounds Oat, it is sometimes difficult to tell whether the merchant really means boots, biscuits, or butter-nuts—shells, cheese or chairs, clivers, clocks or chains.

REMEMBER THE ORPHAN.—Let not the orphan child be forgotten. But next to the blessings which in the family relation have come to us, let us remember these homeless, unprotected ones, and do by them as in a change of circumstances, we would that others should do by us, and thus find in the fulfillment of that declaration of Holy Writ, that it is more "blessed to give than to receive."

GEN. CASS DECLINES THE PRESIDENCY.—General Cass has written the following note to Andrew J. Webster, Esq., and others Philadelphia:—

"Gentlemen:—I have received your letter, asking me if I am a candidate for the office of President of the United States, and expressing the gratification it would give to support me for that high station.

While thanking you for this mark of your confidence, of which I shall always preserve a grateful recollection, I am not a candidate, for that office, nor do I desire that my name should be presented in connection with it to the consideration of the Democratic party of the Union.

I am, gentlemen, with regard,
Truly yours, LEWIS CASS."

A WILLIAM CHEBSTER.—A merchant in Williamsburg, Ohio, recently, had married a highly respectable and accomplished young lady, possessed of $2000 in money and three horses and lots. Butler soon sold the real estate of his wife, and after getting the proceeds of the sale, broke open her trunk and took therefrom the $2000 in gold. He then very coolly told her that he only married her for the purpose of getting her money, and immediately started for the West. The injured was overhauled at Indianapolis, however, and had no doubt received the punishment he so richly deserves.

The weather was somewhat colder yesterday, and there were indications of snow last evening.

The Discovery of Penobscot River.

BY J. W. P., ESQ.

Penobscot Bay and River were first discovered in 1605 by Capt. Geo. Weymouth from England in the ship Archangel, who first made anchorage with his ship upon the west side of Long Island, which may be considered the first of the Bay. He anchored his ship, and with his boat, sha[illegible] as he called it, with seventeen men aboard of the river proper, as he judged twenty miles. Capt. Weymouth considered the Bay on the east side of Long Island the mouth of a great river, says he passed up the river with a gentle breeze sixty miles from Penobscot harbor, as he named the first harbor he made. He said the natives received with what admiration they all [illegible] absented. Many who had traded in many countries and in most famous rivers, affirmed them not to be comparable to this. He said he would not pretend before England a richest treasure, that river Thames, but they all wished those excellent harbors and depths, convenient ground to be as well found there here.—He [illegible] found [illegible] it to be the most beautiful, large and secure harboring river the world affords, furnishing more good harbors for ships of all burdens than all England.

In 1629 a patent was intended to embrace thirty miles in length on both sides of the Penobscot, was granted to Beauchamp and Leverett in joint [illegible] antry. As survivor Leverett became sole owner. By the laws of England, this [illegible] the chief [illegible] the whole patent was inherited by President Leverett of Harvard College, great grandson of the patentee. President Leverett by deed divided the patent into ten shares, granting one share [illegible] descendant of Gov. Bradford [illegible] ish some interfering claim. One [illegible] Phipps who [illegible] full of sweet, had bought of Mason [illegible] shares in his possession of the [illegible] of certain settling duties, [illegible] had assumed the name of the [illegible] ers. conveyed 100,000 acres including [illegible] to a company that took the name [illegible] Twenty Associates," As time advanced, danger arose that the title to the patent would be vacated for some defect. Indeed to get [illegible] settlement with [illegible] services, the [illegible] to him all the [illegible] serving only 1000 acres. About 1760 [illegible] Waldo with a company [illegible] building a fort [illegible] of Ebenezer Brewer [illegible] the father of [illegible] were two of the [illegible] ers. From an acquaintance [illegible] him as a boat [illegible] a settlement the [illegible] was [illegible] down [illegible] While building [illegible] Jellison [illegible] fort with a party of [illegible] soldiers, Jellison [illegible] ng of them. AN AWKWARD MISTAKE.—The following good story is told [illegible] Gen. Cass by a correspondent of the Spring[illegible] Republican:

"Gen. Cass has [illegible] Administration in Washington [illegible] Guy of Baltimore [illegible] singular coincidence, of which he [illegible] the Senate by a demon[illegible] for a better room. About an [illegible] after which [illegible] was leaving the [illegible] for the Senate, [illegible] came the man again, and [illegible] this time he commenced his remarks by a [illegible] slap on the shoulder. 'Now I've got you [illegible] old Guy,' says he, 'and I want you to know [illegible] moved down a story or two. Confound it! I thought I asked you this morning, but it turned out to be old Case I was speaking to, and he looked as cross as a bear with a sore head.' 'Sir,' replied the Senator in a stern tone, and with a withering glance, 'you are evidently liable to mistakes; for you are not talking to Gen. Cass a second time. Good morning, sir.'"

PROFITABLE COW.—During five days in the month of November, the milk of one cow, owned by Deacon Samuel P. Jewett of Rowley yielded 9 lbs. 8 oz. of butter; in twelve days, 21 lbs. 10 oz.; in twenty-four days, 36 lbs. 8 oz. In addition to the milk set for cream, one pint was used for other purposes each day. The cow had no extra keeping during this period.

The Steamer Star of the West.

It is almost impossible for any ordinary man to take in at once, the [illegible] ce, the [illegible] tions of the new Iron Ship, that [illegible] on the Thames. With a view to [illegible] of the many inquiries [illegible] ers, we give a few facts and [illegible] proportions and de[illegible]

This steamer is built [illegible] a series of boxes or compartments, [illegible] enclosed shell of iron plates, the inner of iron, [illegible] the inner shell. Outside this is an outer skin of plates. The outer and inner [illegible] joined to each other by longitudinal girders formed of plates and angles, [illegible] will be seventeen of these [illegible] ship, thus joining the outer and [illegible] means of a number of water tight [illegible] extraordinary strength that they never before communicated to or [illegible] sides these small cells forming [illegible] were, of the ship, she is being [illegible] teen sections—the middle section [illegible] built up to its full altitude, and [illegible] laid—the other sections, fore and [illegible] successively built in like manner [illegible] the preceding section. It may [illegible] said that the ship will consist of [illegible] ber of water-tight apartments [illegible] er and inner skins, and of the [illegible] square compartments in the body [illegible] not merely nominal divisions, [illegible] substantial, water-tight bulkheads [illegible] sent strength to bear the pressure [illegible] with water. In case of accident [illegible] broken in two, the separate portions would [illegible] float, without damage to the cargo [illegible] the uninjured sections.

The following is a statement of [illegible] sions—length 184 feet, breadth [illegible] 48, number of decks 3, measurement [illegible] tons. She is to have both screw [illegible] engines, whose nominal horse power [illegible] screw, 1,600; paddles, 1,000. [illegible] horse power. Cylinder of screw engines [illegible] diameter of cylinder, 84 inches; [illegible] cylinders of paddle engine, seven feet; length of stroke, 14 feet 6 inches. The engine-room will be forty feet long. The propeller will be 21 feet in diameter, [illegible] middle wheels have been fitted at 58. Draft of water loaded, 23 feet; draft of water in ballast, 18 feet.

The masts are five in number—ship rigged. The steering apparatus consists of two rudders with power sufficient to bring her round. The after rudder is placed [illegible] like an ordinary ship's rudder; the [illegible] row will work forward of the rudder, ahead of the screw, is to be a second rudder, in form something like a common rudder. The engines will be placed in different parts of the ship, entirely independent of each other. The vessel will have ten boilers and [illegible] smoke pipes. Every boiler can be cut off from its neighbor and used or not, as desired; they will be placed longitudinally along each side of the ship; each boiler will have its furnaces, giving to the whole one hundred large fires. The vessel will have two paddle wheels in the usual manner, but the paddle-floats are to be on the descending principle so that one or both of the paddle wheels may, if desired, be put in independent motion. Her deck is to be flush; the floor perfectly flat. She is to have a saloon 600 feet in length, 14 feet in length, 15 feet high, and accommodations for 600 first-class passengers and 1000 second class. It used as a transport ship it will take 10,000 troops with their arms and field equipments. Over 7000 tons of iron are used in her construction.

This steamer is building by Scott Russell, under the charge of J. K. Brand, one of the most celebrated engineers of his time. We learn from the Ran. John Appleton of this city, who visited her a few days before leaving London, that the works rapidly progressing, and that she is expected to be finished during the next summer.—Scale of Marine.

FINANCIAL OPERATIONS AND OPERATORS.—Our late highly respected fellow-citizen, Josiah B. Kilgore, Esq., who wrote a letter to his wife that he was "going over Canbridge Bridge" and who, a day or two before his mysterious disappearance, stuffed his pockets with ten thousand dollars worth of bills of exchange on London, which he purchased of John F. Thayer & Co., paying for them with checks on French, Wells & Co., in England. So he writes, in another letter to his wife, in which he invites her to come to him.

Oliver King, charged with participation in the robbery of fifty thousand dollars from the American Express Company, gave bail yesterday for his appearance for examination to-morrow in the Police Court.

No word yet, by spiritual or magnetic telegraph, of Mr. G. Francis Thayer, the late Cashier of the Grocers Bank, who transferred ten thousand dollars of the bank funds into some speculation—but upon being discovered in the trick, restored $5000.

A new commotion was excited in State street yesterday, by the disclosure of the fact that $2500 had been stolen by somebody. It is the practice at the Suffolk Bank to place the bills of other city banks in special boxes, from which the packages are taken every morning by the paying teller and handed to the messengers of the other banks. On Thursday morning the messenger of the Washington Bank went, as usual, to make his exchanges. The box in the Suffolk was emptied as usual into his bag, and he proceeded to the Washington Bank, where, on counting the bills, the sum of seven thousand dollars was found to be missing. The Suffolk Bank contends that it delivered to the messenger of the Washington the full sum due that bank. The messenger replies that he delivered all that he received to the cashier of his own bank. A similar "accident" has occured between the Suffolk Bank and the Merchants' Bank. The amount is $2500. The Suffolk Bank claims to be able to show that the bills were delivered. The Merchants' Bank replies that it never received them. Thus the matter stands at present. The whole affair is wrapped in a deep mystery, which all efforts to solve have, thus far, been in vain.

Thomas Daly, who rose $10 wells from Thomas Casey, was yesterday taken before the Police Court, tried and sentenced to six months in the House of Correction; and Jeremiah Sullivan, who, while on a begging errand at the house of Mr. John Walcott, No. 46 Boylston street, stole five dollars worth of articles, was sent to the same establishment. That's the way the world go now. Schuyler, who steals thousands and men like him, enjoy the luxuries of Italian [illegible] and the refined society of the great in the Old World, while the mere [illegible] of criminals are hustled into solemn prisons. A better state of things will follow by and by. So we hope.

WASHINGTON RUMORS.—The Times correspondent says—

"It is stated quite positively to-night, that Fuller has given written pledges to Southern men to abjure the Nebraska issue if elected.

Another story, with Democratic endorsement, is that the Know Nothings would vote for Orr, and that the Richardson men and they would unite for that gentleman's election in the plurality resolution be adopted.

We are indebted to Mr. Chas P. Kimball, of "Noisy Carriers Publishing Hall," San Francisco, for supplies of California, Oregon, and Washington Territory papers.

FROM CALIFORNIA.—The steamship Empire City, Capt. Windle, from Aspinwall, with the California mails and treasure, arrived on Sunday. She brings the California mails, $1,740,000 in gold dust, the South Pacific mails and about 500 passengers. She has later dates from the South Pacific, but unlater dates from California.

She left Aspinwall at midnight, Dec. 6th and brings the treasure brought down by the John L. Stevens. The latter boat spoke, 3d inst. Steamer Sonora, bound up with the New York passengers of the 20th Nov.—all well.

Nothing important from the Isthmus. Dates at Panama received from Valparaiso Oct 21, Lima Nov. 10, Pasta Nov. 15. Business at Valparaiso was unprofitable. Flour $11 50 to $13, mill stock. Ship Seringa, and bark Milford, from New York, and ship Lawrence, from Baltimore, had arrived; also, three new Peruvian war steamers, from England. It was reported that Arequipa and some of the southern cities had declared in favor of Gen. Vivanco.

The revolutionary movement in Bolivia, under Aviles, had been put down.

THE MASSACHUSETTS STEAMER.—On Friday last, Mr. Alex. M. Ross, Mr. Holmes, Mr. Bidder and other officials of the Grand Trunk Railway Company, with Lieut. Franklin, and others of our citizens, made a short excursion with Capt. Harrison, of the Steamship Africa, down the harbor, taking the opportunity to verify the most important soundings laid down on the Coast Survey Chart. These soundings were found to be accurately stated at all the points examined.

The visit of Capt. Harrison was in reference to the channels and soundings of our harbor, in view of the expected voyage in this port, of the Australian Steam Navigation Company's mammoth steamer, of which Capt. H. is to be the commander.

The general opinion is that the capabilities of our Harbor are such as to render it almost certain that the new Steamship will make Portland her depot.—Portland Argus.

WHAT IS THE PRICE OF DUCKS?—A gentleman was asked "What was the price of ducks" when he confessed he could not tell. He had been put that very day with his wife, and she had purchased no fewer than three ducks. Firstly, there was a "duck" of address; secondly, a "duck" of a present; and thirdly, a "duck" of a bonnet. The first was made of Genoa velvet, the second was trimmed with Valenciennes lace, and the third had a magnificent bunch of ostrich feathers. The united cost of these delicious ducks was £56, so that each duck had cost him more than £18 and a few shillings a-piece. He supposed there were ducks to be had in the market at present, but for himself, whenever he heard his wife mention "the word duck," he always trembles from head to foot, for he knows at once that it means something inordinately expensive.

The manner of Daniel Webster's engagement to Miss Fletcher, is thus pleasantly discovered by a letter writer:

"He was then a young lawyer in Portsmouth N. H. At one of his visits to Miss Grace Fletcher, he had, probably with a view of utility and enjoyment, been holding skeins of silk for a friend of hers, when suddenly he stopped, saying, 'Grace, we have been engaged in hunting knots; let us see if we can tie a knot, one which will not untie for a lifetime.' He then took a piece of tape and after beginning a knot of a peculiar kind, gave it to her to complete. This was the ceremony and realization of their engagement. And now, in the little box marked by him 'Precious Documents,' containing the letters of his early courtship, this unique memorial is still to be found—the knot never untied.

GLASS!

Daguerreotypes and Crystalotypes, at Burnham's

19 Main Street and 69 Strickland's Block.

Likenesses made upon Glass, showing all the delicacy and smoothness which the glass surface presents. These Pictures are truly beautiful.—Come and see for one.

—ALSO—

Crystalotype Likenesses, (on Pictures on Paper.) These Pictures, which have been gaining in public favor for some years past in Boston and elsewhere, are now presented for the consideration of those who wish for a large number of Pictures at small price. They resemble Engravings, are not reversed, and may be painted in Oil or Water Colors. Small Daguerreotypes may be enlarged by this process to almost any size. This we consider a very valuable consideration, as many persons who have small Pictures of deceased friends would be glad to have them enlarged, so as to be hung in frames upon the wall.

The subscribers have recently secured the services of T. R. Burnham, who has been operating in the vicinity, and has collected a large number of specimens of persons in the following towns, viz:—Oldtown, Orono, Hampden, Frankfort, Frankfort Marsh, Buckaport, Prospect, Searsport and Belfast, which may be seen at the Mansion room.

With the above named arrangement we feel better prepared than ever before to wait upon our friends, and we respectfully solicit a continuance of the patronage which has been so liberally bestowed for the past ten years.

TELEGRAPHIC

TO THE DAILY WHIG AND COURIER

Congressional News.

WASHINGTON, Dec 19.

SENATE.—In the Senate to-day, Mr. Clayton presented a memorial, praying for indemnity for French spoliations, prior to the year 1800

Messrs. Broadhead and Crittenden presented memorials from certain officers complaining of the action of the naval board.

Mr. Jones of Iowa offered a resolution calling for the proceedings of that Board

A discussion ensued, when the resolution was adopted

HOUSE.—In the House to-day Mr. Thorington withdrew his resolution providing for the election of Speaker by a plurality vote, as members desired to vote viva voce—but he gave notice that he should renew it to-day or to-morrow

Mr Barclay of Pa. explained his position, in reply to his colleague, Mr Campbell. He said he had never had the slightest sympathy with the free soil heresy. He and his party friends regard it as they do the Romances of Cervantes —some, a long tedious, miserable mixture of it (Laughter) In the last campaign, he was opposed to the repeal of the Missouri line, because he believed, that agitating the question involved a mere abstraction If a bill were introduced to restore the line he would be found on a solemn column [the telegraph has it "solemn," and that is an appropriate word] with the democrats, voting against it.

Mr Campbell of Pa asked his colleague if he was not elected as an anti Nebraska man?

Mr Barclay replied he was regularly nominated as the Democratic candidate, and was opposed as much to the restoration of the Missouri line as to its repeal, because the latter gave occasion for agitation to break down the Democratic party, and damage the Union

Mr Whitney defended the American party at the North but Mr Trafton thought he did so represent it truly, as Massachusetts and other northern States have anti-Slavery principles

Mr Whitney responded that the free dollers of Massachusetts rushed falsely under the banners of the American party In conclusion he submitted a resolution to the house to elect a Speaker by ballot

The resolution was laid on the table by a vote of 213 to 7.

Mr Calwalader congratulated the country upon this condemnation of the secret principles relied on by the Know Nothings

Mr Fuller, of Pennsylvania, explained his position as being opposed to the further agitation of the Slavery question. If he had been of the last Congress, he would have opposed the territorial legislation, but he would not now vote for the restoration of the Missouri Compromise, and would admit Kansas with or without slavery. He was in favor of leaving it to the people of Kansas.

Mr. Todd said if he had known this before, he would have suffered his right hand to wither before voting for Mr. Hunter (Fuller?)

Mr Reilly replied to Mr Whitney, saying the oasis of Know Nothingism in New York was Free Soilism, and Cutter would not have been elected to Congress had it not been for divisions in the Democracy.

Several other gentlemen explained their positions.

Messrs. Walker, Lake and Brady were satisfied with Fuller's position

Mr Ball was not, and would vote for Banks.

Mr Campbell of Ky, defended the American party, and was severe on the Free Soilers.

During the proceedings there was much excitement. Some speakers were applauded and some were hissed.

Another vote was taken Banks 106, Richardson 75, Fuller 64, scattering 9. Necessary to a choice, 113. Adjourned.

From Kansas.

St. Louis 19th.

A despatch from Independence of the 18th says the trouble at Lawrence, has been settled by the people promising to deliver the offenders over to the laws of the Territory, to organize the government as such, and conduct themselves in the future as law abiding people. They refuse, however, to deliver their arms

This despatch is from a pro-slavery source We don't believe the free State men have promised to obey the laws of the bogus Legislature—but if so, what the despatch means?

The volunteers from Missouri had been disbanded and returned home.

Col. Cummings, Superintendent of Indian Affairs, arrived at Council Bluffs yesterday, from the Blackfeet country, where he concluded treaties with several tribes of Indians

The Recent Mutiny Disasters.

The Crescent City was of 1800 tons burthen, was built in 1842, and belonged to Low & Roberts Boat and cargo valued at $100,000, not insured

The steamer Unicorn, bound to New Orleans with a cargo of 2 600 bales of cotton, caught fire on the morning of the 16th, when about 20 miles below Yazoo City, and both vessel and cargo were destroyed

SENTENCE FOR MURDER.—In the Supreme Judicial Court yesterday, Judge Davis presiding, Martin Corliey and John Conley, convicted of murder in the 2d degree, were brought up for sentence

The prisoners were convicted at the March Term, 1854, of causing the death of John Gruber in an affray, which occurred at Gum's Corner, on Sunday, Feb 12, 1854 Motion in arrest of judgement and for a new trial was made by Counsel for the prisoners immediately after their conviction Exceptions taken were argued before the Court and were overruled

Judge Davis sentenced Martin Corliey to the State Prison for life The sentence of John Conley was continued for sentence.—Portland Advertiser.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE. The Washington correspondent of the New York Express telegraphs on Monday as follows

"The President to-day is turning the White House into a printing office Printers are now there, with their cases, setting up the Message The cause of this extraordinary case is the inability of the President to read any of his own agents out of his own house."

Mr. Greeley telegraphs on Monday, as follows

"There is a spicy and useful debate in the House to day. Mr Banks acquitted himself admirably, and stood stronger at the close than I have ever before known him to stand. He will be elected Speaker. It was abundantly demonstrated to-day that the Nebraska Democrats and the National Know Nothings can never join forces. Our friends are generally anxious to come to a preliminary vote, and will get one as soon as practicable."

The correspondent of the New York Herald telegraphed on Monday

"I was informed this evening by a friend of Mr Fuller, that if they pressed a vote he, together with others, would vote for an administration man
